SOUTHERN PACIFIC'S DIETETIC SERVICE

Maintaining its leadership in the development of new travel comforts and conveniences, the Southern Pacific Company through its commissary department is now prepared to meet the dietetic requirements of all its patrons.

As a result, it is no longer necessary for persons to remain at home because of inability to obtain special foods while traveling. By simply consulting Southern Pacific stewards, travelers may order meals suited to their individual needs.

Virtually any diet in common use can be prepared, correctly and attractively, and served to train passengers in drawing rooms, sections or dining cars. The same service is provided on Southern Pacific's steamships between New Orleans and New York.

Southern Pacific's dining car department has always been able to furnish special dishes to invalids and persons requiring foods from a diet list. But now it has completed arrangements for the serving of complete dietetic meals.

This new feature was introduced by the company after thorough study and consultation with the dietitians of its Hospital Department and the U. S. Army Medical Corps. The diet service is available to all travelers, and dining car stewards have been instructed fully in the preparation of such meals.
